WONDERFUL TALE OF SHOE MANUFACTURING

a vibrating roll passes over the sole of the shoe under heavy pressure, covering every portion of the sole and shank, and after completing its operation the shoe is automatically dropped from its position beneath the roll. It removes every possibility of unevenness in the bottom of the shoe. The shoe now receives its heel, which with the exception of the top lift has already been prepared. It is secured in place by the American Lightning Heeling Machine, by means of which the heel nails are driven at one time and clinched inside the shoe. The heads of the nails are left protruding above the heel so as to retain the top lift, which is also pressed into place on this machine. As it is pressed down over the heads of the nails they do not show on the surface of the top lift.

The next machine drives the small pile of brass or other metal which protects the top lift from wear and which are called studs. This is done by the Universal Studging Machine. They are automatically placed at any desired number, and are secured by a continuous cord or wire. The top lift, which was accurately placed on the Heeling Machine, also serves as a guard for the Ultimate Heel Trimming Machine, in which a rapid revolving knife cuts away all the rough and surplus portions of the leather, leaving the edge of the heel smooth with the exact contour intended. The edge of the sole is now trimmed on the Model "A" Edge Trimming Machine, and a series of indentations made along the surface of the welt between the stitches to give the shoe a much more pleasing appearance and finish. This work is done on the Goodyear Welt Indenting and Burnishing Machine.

The shoe from this point passes through a variety of operations, varying with the factories in which they are made, intending to bring every portion to the highest and most durable finish. After all is completed, the last, which has been allowed to remain in the shoe, is withdrawn and the final dressing and finishing is administered so that the shoe stands forth a perfect product.

In every portion of the world it will be found that wherever the highest grade of footwear is made this same process and the same machines are employed, varying only in unimportant details, and that the Goodyear Welt Shoe is esteemed the highest type of footwear in appearance, comfort, and wear the world has ever known.

Census to Be Taken Over.

Newburgh, N. Y., Sept. 12.—There is such general dissatisfaction with the manner in which the census by the United States authorities has been conducted, that the Newburgh Journal and the Newburgh News to-night announce that they will each individually place canvassers on the work, and have the census of the city again gone over, the Federal enumeration showing but a gain of 2 per cent over that of ten years ago.

PRINTERS WIND UP BIG DAY AT DANCE

Strains of Dreamy Music
Floated from New Ebbitt.

PARADE IN THE AFTERNOON

First Formal Event of Union Baseball Tourney Sees Visitors in Gayly Decked Automobiles on Way to National Park, Where Washington Trims Philadelphia Team.

After a morning of sightseeing and an automobile parade and baseball game in the afternoon, the union printers attending the national typographical diamond series danced last night into to-day at the New Ebbitt.

For the first time in months the theater crowds passing Fourteenth and F streets last night had a chance to pause and listen to the strains of music floating from the ball room of the rejuvenated Ebbitt.

Within the 300 printers and their wives, daughters, and sweethearts rounded out the first day of their week of fun by holding an informal hop that was the first event of the downtown social season. They circled in dreamy waltzes and blitting two-steps, and had a good time generally.

Parade to Ball Park.

The sightseeing in the morning was done informally, in parties of half a dozen. The first formal event of the gathering started at 1 o'clock, when a long line of gayly decked automobiles and "rubber-neck" wagons moved away from the Ebbitt, paraded down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol, and then headed for the American League Park.

The flags of the ten cities represented by teams in the typographic league waved in a profusion of bunting. Every car had flags of some sort, and with the band blaring in the lead, there was a happy party in each machine.

Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, which furnishes the material for the Washington nine, trounced Philadelphia to the tune of 9 to 6. There was unbounded enthusiasm at the park, as it was the first game of the championship series to be played this week.

Loving Cup at Stake.

The winner of the tournament will get a lie on the big silver loving cup that is now on exhibition at the Ebbitt. The trophy was offered by Garry Herrmann, of Cincinnati, for the team winning the championship three years straight. New York holds it now.

In addition to the elaborate programme planned by Columbia 101 for the visitors, there will be a number of special features. One of them is a shopping tour for the women to-morrow morning. The feminine part of the gathering will be taken to all the shops, and storekeepers will make them welcome and arrange bargain sales for them.

The following committee has been appointed to take charge of the visiting women: Mrs. Allen G. Flowers, chairman; Mrs. Charles P. Johnson, vice chairman; Mrs. Edgar T. Brown, secretary; Mrs. James T. Elliott, Mrs. Edward W. George, Mrs. W. S. Still, Miss Still, Mrs. Frank S. Lerch, Mrs. Thomas A. Bynum, Mrs. George G. Seibold, Mrs. Philip Nachman, Mrs. Bert V. Wolfe, Miss Dorothy Wolfe, Mrs. Timothy M. Ring, and others.

After $10,000 worth of repairs, the former Hotel Regent is again open under the name of the Hotel Grand, with Edward J. Gardiner as proprietor.

Mr. Gardiner has renovated the house throughout and added many comforts for the guests. The grill room will be one of the new features of the hotel, which will be on the European plan. W. S. Shepherd, formerly of the New Willard Hotel, will be manager.

The dining-room partitions have been torn down to enlarge it.

DOUBT AS TO BURIAL.

Gen. Urell's Friends Are Concerned About Interment.

There is some doubt about the death bed statement of Gen. Urell, in which he is accredited with expressing a desire to be buried in Ireland. As a result, James Urell, his brother, who came here from New York to confer with Capt. E. G. Schafer, R. A. O'Brien, and J. G. Maxwell, the committee named by Washington Lodge, No. 15, B. P. O. E., concerning the disposal of the body, wrote his relatives in Ireland for Gen. Urell's exact words, so there can be no question of his wish.

James Urell and Washington Lodge of Elks prefer to have the body brought back and interred at Arlington, but Gen. Urell's wish will be carried out, and it will be at least two weeks before that is known positively.

GREAT MEN'S NAMES ON A MOTOR CAR

Autographs Gathered During the Munsey Tour.

When the Munsey tour came to an end last month one of the most interesting cars in this city was the Seiden car, which had acted as pilot. There was hardly a square inch on the body of it that was not covered with a name or names, for from the time the tour started, in Philadelphia on August 15, hundreds had written their names on it. Though the car was bright and slick in its coat of gray when it left the factory, it was anything but gray when the tour ended, and the car, which was known as the "autograph car," certainly earned its name. In addition to the many who could lay no claim to fame who had written their names on the car, there were inscribed on it also the names of some particularly well-known personages, men high up in public life.

As the tour started from Philadelphia Mayor John B. Reubyn, of that city, was the first to sign, and was given the position on
